Sixty-Third Year | Canyon, Texas | Wednesday, May 7, 1958 | Number 4

Tulips and Torrid Temperatures

Ah, Spring, or call it summer if you will. Because the weather didn't cooperate, spring flowers and summer temperatures are coming together. It was late winter up until a couple of days ago and then suddenly became summer. Over last weekend, Canyon received .36 of an inch of moisture in two showers—.20 of an inch Friday and .16 of an inch Saturday.

38 Get School Service Awards

Thirty-eight teachers and auxiliary service employes were presented service awards Tuesday night during the Service Awards dinner sponsored by the Canyon Classroom Teachers Association and the school board.

Dr. J. A. Hill, president-emeritus of West Texas State, was guest speaker and talked on "The Upward Look of Education." Dr. Hill defended the public school system in the U. S. against what he called "poison critics."

"He who is inhospitable to our schools is no friend to our country," Dr. Hill said.

He also defended the right of the people to honestly search for faults in the school system. Dr. Hill said the schools are not perfect, nor is the curriculum or the teachers. "The child and not his arithmetic is the object of education," he said.

Dr. Hill said teachers have done and are doing more for our country than any other professional or occupational group in the nation.

"Don't discount the youngster who doesn't do well in school—it may be the school's at fault," he said. "It may be he has talent that education doesn't discover."

Mrs. Flora Phillips was installed as president of the CCTA for the next year by Mrs. Alma Perkins. Other officers installed are Mrs. Dan Sanders, first vice president, Sidney Burgess, second vice president, Mrs. Mitchell Jones, secretary, George Cristy, treasurer, and Newton Richardson, parliamentarian.

A special service award was made to Walter Graham for being a member of the school board for 29 consecutive years. Graham first went on the board in 1929.

Those receiving service awards, and their years of service, were:

Burglars Haul Off Cash, Gun

Burglars worked Canyon over Wednesday night and made off with $108 in cash and a .22 caliber pistol.

The burglars broke into three business firms and attempted to break into two more.

Breaking a glass in the back door of Western Auto, the burglars opened the door and took $65 in bills and the pistol, which was the personal property of Bud Parker, the owner of the store.

Some $43 in cash was taken from Jack Eddings Texaco Service, where the burglars broke a hole in the glass door. No change was taken at either place.

Entry in Taylor & Sons was through a rest room window. Nothing was missing from the store. The burglars broke the glass in the window and opened it.

Break-ins were also tried at Jennings Men's Wear and Jennings Dress Shop. At the Men's Wear store, the burglars took a panel out of the wooden door. At the Dress Shop, they pried on the door but were unable to open it.

Burial will be in St. Mary's Cemetery at Umbarger under the direction of Warren-LaGrone Funeral Home.

Born Aug. 29, 1906, at High Hill, Texas, she was married to Paul Artho at High Hill on May 6, 1929. They moved to the Umbarger community at that time.

Mrs. Nora Hart Dies Saturday

Services in memory of Mrs. Nora Lee Hart were held at 2:30 p. m. in the First Baptist Church with the Rev. Strauss Atkinson, pastor, officiating.

Assisting was the Rev. Don Price, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church. Burial was in Dreamland Cemetery under the direction of Warren-LaGrone Funeral Home.

Mrs. Hart died at 12:30 p. m. Saturday in Neblett Hospital, where she had been a patient since Thursday night when she suffered a stroke while driving to her home, 1900 Fifth Avenue, from a meeting.

According to Bill Pickering, Canyon police chief, the car driven by Mrs. Hart went out of control and struck a parked car belonging to Dr. R. P. Jarrett. Jarrett's car was parked in front of the American Legion Hall on 16th Street.

Mrs. Hart turned west to 15th and drove south until her car struck a stop sign and a light post at Fifth Avenue and 15th Street and swerved to strike another parked car, owned by Bruce Buchanan.

Pickering said it appeared she then put the car in reverse and drove at high speed through the closed garage type doors on the John Deere building on the south side of the square. Her car rolled all the way through the building and was stopped by the brick wall at the back of the building.

Hospital officials said Mrs. Hart received no major injuries in the accident.

She had lived in Canyon since 1934, coming here from Parker County, Texas. She and her husband, Silas, have operated a hardware store on the west side of the square since 1938.

Mrs. Hart was a native Texan and was a member of the First Baptist Church, Order of the Eastern Star, Daughters of the Nile and Rebekah Lodge. She was married Aug. 23, 1918, in Jones County.

Surviving are her husband; a daughter, Mrs. George Howard of Shamrock; a son, Lt. Col. Fred L. Hart of San Bernardino, Calif.; three sisters, Mrs. Ennis Fitzgerald of Lueders and Mrs. Sam Hanson and Mrs. Dewey West, both of Stamford; two brothers, George Lawrence of Lueders and Bill Lawrence of Austin and four grandchildren.

Shakespeare's Merchant Continues Run at WT Branding Iron Theatre

Performances of "The Merchant of Venice," one of Shakespeare's greatest comedies, will continue each night through Saturday in the Branding Iron Theatre at West Texas State College.

Curtain time is 8:15 p. m., and reservations may be made through the West Texas State speech department. Admission is 75 cents for adults and 50 cents for high school students and children.

Directing are William A. and Margaret Echols Moore, with Robert L. Antrim as technical director.

Costumes and sets for the production were designed and made by several dramatics club members, under Antrim's direction, and even the shoes and swords were made by students.

Utilizing simple staging against colorful backdrops and with unique lighting, the comedy is rated the most popular of the Shakespearean farces. Originally titled "The Jew of Venice," the play attracted such famous actors and actresses as Edwin Booth, Sir Laurence Oliver, and Ellen Terry.

The Moore's production follows the Max Reinhardt semi-farcical direction, and many of the lines have been "modernized," so the audience may easily follow the action.

Among the leading roles are Portia, by Carol Gray of Amarillo, Shylock, by Edward Thomas of Amarillo, Bassanio, by Tommy Culpepper of Canyon, Nerissa, by Marty Hinson of Amarillo, Antonio, by J. Scott Glenn of Borger, Gratiano, by Jerry Williams of Canyon, and Jessica, by Merle Dean Ware of Hartley.

California Public Relations Man Named Commencement Speaker

Dr. Frank O. McIntyre, director of public relations for the southern section, California Teachers Association, will be speaker for West Texas State College's commencement, May 25, according to President James P. Cornette.

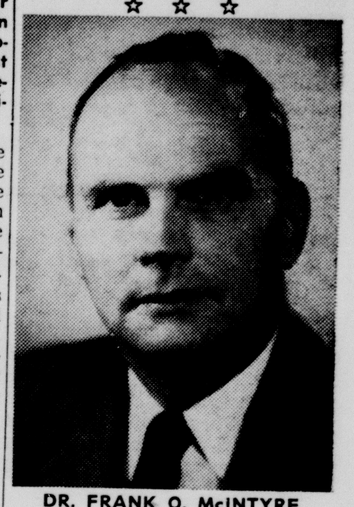

Approximately 290 students are expected to receive degrees at the spring convocation, marking the largest spring graduating class in WT's history. Some of whom are candidates, however, will not complete work, cutting the final list.

Activities for graduating seniors will start May 22 with the annual Senior Class Day exercises. Dr. and Mrs. Cornette will honor graduating students May 24 with their traditional reception at the President's residence.

Commencement exercises are scheduled at 5 p. m., May 25, in the WT fieldhouse.

Dr. McIntyre was one of the featured speakers in March at the annual District IX, Texas State Teachers Association, convention in Amarillo.

He has given more than 1,000 addresses throughout the nation during the past four years. Before joining the California association, Dr. McIntyre was for ten years a classroom teacher, dean of Norfolk College in Nebraska. He was a director of sales training courses for several firms in the Midwest before going to California.

Okay Legion Hall Plans for Center

Plans for remodeling the American Legion Hall to provide a community center were approved by the community recreation group Thursday night.

After studying plans by architect C. N. Harrison and a watercolor sketch by Mrs. Emilio Caballero, members of the group unanimously approved of remodeling the Legion Hall rather than constructing a building to be used as a center.

A lease arrangement for the hall has not yet been worked out. Paul Rogers, representing the Legion, indicated that his group would be willing to make the lease.

Estimated cost of the remodeling is $15,000. The estimate was made by a committee composed of Bill Downing, contractor, Mrs. Marie Goyne, interior decorator, and Mrs. Ples Harper, chairman of a location committee.

Under the remodeling plans, there would be no change in the location or amount of space in the game room of the hall. An addition of seven feet would be made to part of the rear of the building. The addition plus interior changes would provide a "Teen Town" for the youth of Canyon.

The plans also included the closing in of the hall's front porch to make space for an office, lounges and a rest room.

The large interior room, where the Rotary and Lions Club now meet, would be remodeled and redecorated.

In the discussion of whether to remodel the Legion Hall or to construct a new building, Mrs. Harper told the group that 4,000 square feet of floor space, the amount available in the Legion Hall, would cost $36,000 in a new structure, built at $9 per square foot. This rate, figured on the price of construction with cinder blocks, is the cheapest rate for new building construction.

Mrs. Harper expressed the view that the city might widen the street in front of the building to allow angle parking. Dr. W. J. Wooten has offered the use of his lot behind the hall for parking space, Mrs. Harper said.

With the approval of remodeling plans, the group also began a more detailed study to determine a long range program of a community center. The study will help in determining the type of director needed.

A state social worker who met with the planning committee told that group that a good social director will carry his own program. The State Welfare Department will assist in the survey to determine the needs.

Robert Antrim, technical director for the Branding Iron Theatre, decorated the meeting room for the session. Mrs. R. P. Jarrett and Mrs. Dick Barrett were also members of the planning committee. Assisting were Delbert Lowes, Oscar Hinger, Mrs. Frank Kimbrough, Karen Sue Parker and Judy Taylor.

Workers Begin One-Week Fund Drive For Scout's Llano Estacado Council

Campaign workers for a one-week Boy Scout fund drive were given work packets Monday at the regular meeting of the Randall District Committee. The workers, scoutmasters, scouts and den mothers were guests of the committee.

The goal for the campaign is $2500 to be added to the Llano Estacado Council budget. The council budget this year is $63,849.28, of which some $42,000 is provided by the Amarillo Community Chest.

R. Earl O'Keefe, president of the council, told the workers of the achievements of the council in recent years. Farris C. Oden, council finance chairman, told how the various elements of scouting are financed.

Entertainment for the program was furnished by a "string band" of cubs from Den 8. Scouts Mike Calliham, Ricky Hearn and Explorer Larry Brotherton told of various phases of scouting.

Battle Harris, representing the parents of boys in Scout Troop 66, presented Scoutmaster Raymond Haddock with an award, and Brotherton, representing the scouts of the troop, gave Haddock a framed poem bearing the signatures of all the troop members.

The fund drive will be closed Saturday.

March was a bloody month. At least it was gory in the Panhandle of Texas.

During March, seven human beings were slaughtered on Panhandle highways. It is not our place to say whether they killed themselves, or whether someone else murdered them—but all seven of them are dead and buried.

During March there were 123 wrecks on the highways of the Panhandle. In those wrecks, 60 human beings were injured, adding more blood to that spilled by the seven people who were killed.

For the benefit of those who are not bothered by the sight of blood, those wrecks caused $83,954 in property damage.

Why did we have those wrecks? The first and foremost reason was excessive speed. The second was improper turning and the third was driving while intoxicated.

We can't blame those 123 wrecks on the highway patrol. There are 37 patrolmen in this district, and those men drove 4½ times around the world on our highways—114,876 miles in March alone.

They weren't just driving, either. They made 846 arrests and stopped another 3525 drivers and warned them of hazardous violations. The arrests were for speeding, 538, and driving while intoxicated, 27.

We can only blame ourselves. We drove too fast. We paid no attention to safe driving rules. We felt it was too much trouble to come to a dead stop at a stop sign. We got hold of something to drink, then drove our cars while under the influence of alcohol.

Randall County has a goal to shoot for. Our goal is to become the safest county for motorists in Texas. We can set an example, and we can show the rest of the state how to cut the number of wrecks, deaths and injuries.

We think it's worth the trouble, and we hope the rest of the people feel the same way. Join us in helping ourselves.

Free Enterprise Loses

(This editorial is reprinted from The Canadian Record.—Editor)

The office of the Internal Revenue Commissioner has ruled that electric power companies get beyond the bounds of business operation when they campaign, through advertising or otherwise, in the interests of the nation's independent power companies as a group opposed to Federal power operators such as TVA.

This, says the Internal Revenue Bureau, is not a legitimate business expense.

And thereby hangs a trend.

Four bills are now pending in Congress to prohibit "propaganda advertising, lobbying, and other political expenditures" from being considered as business expenses in determining public utility rates, bar deduction of such expenditures for income tax purposes, and require advertising and public relations firms working on programs in excess of $50,000 designed to influence legislation to register as lobbyists.

These proposed laws are aimed primarily at public utilities, but the Internal Revenue regulation covers any contribution to any organization which uses the money for advertising to explain the position of a sponsoring group on pending legislation, either at the federal or local level.

This is an obvious effort to employ a tax penalty to hamper freedom of speech and of the press by taxing the expressing of opinion.

It is, we submit, a legitimate and reasonable business expense for any free enterprise to argue for its own existence and against influences which would penalize it or ruin it.

The IRS ruling, and the proposed bills now pending in Congress, all have the net effect of putting a tax penalty on any business which employs an advertising or public relations program to present its case against government regulation before the court of public opinion.

The same Internal Revenue Service, however, has ruled that business contributions (by utility firms or others) to the Foundation for Education of International Economic Relations are tax deductible. This "Foundation" uses its funds to influence U. S. taxpayers to support foreign aid.

It is all right, in other words, for U. S. business to deduct from taxes, as a legitimate business expense, funds contributed to support an activity which the government approves . . . but not funds used to oppose a government-approved activity, even if that government operation is harmful to U. S. business.

Wray Flemming, manager of the Hoosier State Press Association, puts it concisely:

"If an advertiser gives to a fund for advertising to explain why legislation will be harmful to his business, the contribution may not be deducted for tax purposes. But the amount is deductible if it is used for advertising to explain why taxpayers should be jolly well pleased over billions of their dollars given away to foreign countries, many of them dripping red in Communist paganism."

Nikita Khrushev himself couldn't have done it better.

Word Users

Possibly you've read here and there about the mis-use of words in advertising, and many of those articles cite the phrase, "Winstons taste good like a cigarette should," as a prime example.

But maybe you missed James Thurber's parody of the phrase, carried to its ultimate end: "We still brew good like we used to could."

We would like to point out one very good reason why the advertisement should not use the word "like" as it does.

Webster's Collegiate Dictionary, an abridged edition, shows 21 different definitions of the word "like." If we, as an English-speaking country, use the word instead of "as" in the Winston phrase, we have added a 22nd definition for "like."

Don't you think our language is difficut enough without adding more definitions? It has became hard enough to write or speak precisely, and more definitions for old words is not going to simplify things.

We can't write good like we used to could.

Could Happen

In our home we spend considerable time reading Dr. Spock's book on child care nowadays.

Not so long back we noticed that the good doctor said that small babies should not be held or played with all the time, lest they lose their ability to amuse themselves.

Could that apply to grown folks, also? Could it be that if people are coddled by their government, and have their wants supplied by the government, they can lose their ability to take care of themselves?

I GIVE YOU TEXAS

By BOYCE HOUSE

Several years ago, I visited a little Texas town and one of the leading citizens invited me to spend the night at his lodge. It was a large house—one of those seemingly primitive places with bearskin rugs on the floor; big fireplace; Indian blankets on the walls; a collection of guns; rafters and beams; tables and chairs held together with pegs; leather thongs for door knobs; benches made of split logs smoothed and polished till they glistened like mirrors. The place must have cost a fortune—and it had a setting of pines and overlooked a lake.

Among the most striking features were the deer heads. They were large and handsome and there were at least two in every room.

"You must be quite a hunter."

"I used to be," he replied, looking a little ashamed, "but one day I shot a deer and the bullet didn't strike a vital spot. He gazed at me with such an expression of suffering in his beautiful eyes that I have never been able to shoot another."

A witty Englishman, Sidney Smith, had his say on taxes:

"Taxes upon every article which enters into the mouth, or covers the back, or is placed under the foot—taxes upon everything which is pleasant to see, hear, feel, smell or taste—taxes upon warmth, light and locomotion—taxes on everything on earth, and the waters under the earth—on everything that comes from abroad or is grown at home—taxes on the raw material—taxes on every fresh value that is added to it by the industry of man—taxes on the sauce which pampers man's appetite and the drug which restores him to health—on the ermine which decorates the judge and the rope which hangs the criminal—on the poor man's salt and the rich man's spice—on the brass nails of the coffin and the ribbons of the bride.

"The schoolboy whips his taxed top; the beardless youth manages his taxed horse with a taxed bridle on a taxed road; the dying Englishman, pouring his medicine, which has paid 7 per cent, into a spoon that has paid 15 per cent, flings himself back upon his chintz bed, which has paid 22 per cent, and expires in the arms of an apothecary who has paid a license of a hundred pounds for the privilege of putting him to death. His whole property is then immediately taxed from 2 to 10 per cent. Besides the probate, large fees are demanded for burying him in the chancel; his virtues are handed down to posterity on taxed marble; he is then gathered to his fathers—to be taxed no more."

What Our Neighbors Say . . .

Harold Hudson in the Ochiltree County Herald: Last year, after watching TCU play A&M one afternoon and seeing SMU play Rice that night, we doubted if we would ever want another such football weekend. Now we have changed our mind. There are two such weekends available this year. On Oct. 4 SMU will play Notre Dame in the afternoon at the Cotton Bowl. That night TCU will play Arkansas in Fort Worth. On Oct. 11, Texas and Oklahoma will hold their annual meeting in the afternoon in the Cotton Bowl and that night Texas Tech and TCU will tangle in Fort Worth. Let's see, if we work it right, we should be able to gather up some buddies, arrive in Fort Worth in time to play 18 holes of golf after the first game, and make it in plenty of time for the night game.

Ernest Joiner in the Ralls Banner: It will cost about $5000 to repair damage done to the Jaycee Swimming Pool by youthful vandals. Nobody has that kind of money. The city doesn't have it, and Jaycees haven't. It took all available resources to build the pool in the first place. Fences have been broken down, all types of junk sunk in the pool, and the tile coping has been removed. Latest act in the long parade of juvenile idiocy is the dumping of dead fish in the pool. We are convinced the work and sacrifice that has gone into providing this pool for youngsters is pure waste. We hereby recommend that the city bulldozer be put to work covering up this focal point of vandalism, and that those of us who have invested so much work and money on the project content ourselves with the fact that we're wiser for the experience.

Jimmie Gillentine in the Hereford Brand: A man whose dog won fights far and wide was approached one day by a fellow with a stumpy looking little mutt with a long snout. After the proper wagers were lodged, a match was set and, right off, the little dog bit the prize winner into halves.

"Well, you won," said the owner of the prize dog, "but tell me one thing, what breed is that critter of yours?"

"Before I cut off his tail and filed down those knots," replied the other man, "most folks said he looked like an alligator."

Four Demonstrate At Club Meeting

The Joe Frank residence was the scene of the Lucky Clover 4-H Club's monthly meeting.

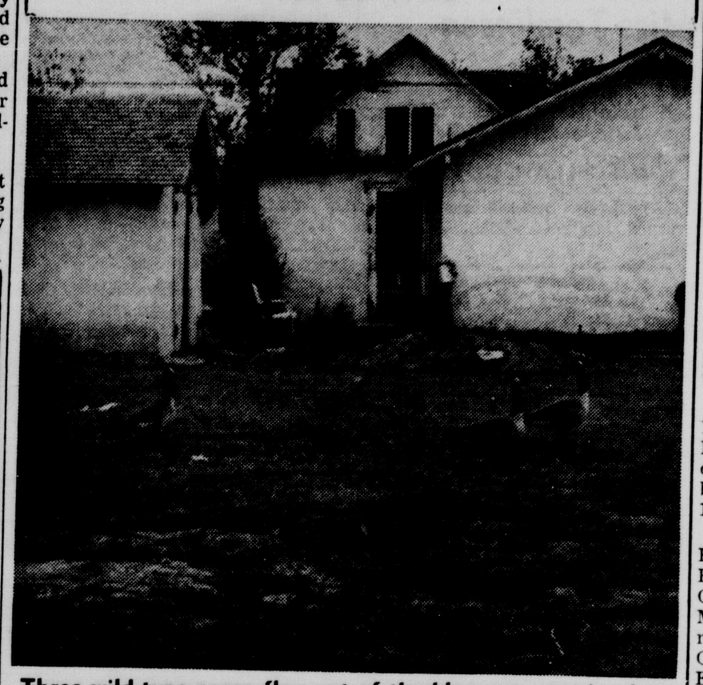

The session was highlighted by four demonstrations. Virginia Friemel and Mary Hoffman gave an electrical demonstration on the use of the fan. Judy and Carolyn Sue Frank illustrated making double deckers. Beatrice Wieck and Bernice Przilas made an English pea salad, and Evelyn Hoffman made a malted milk shake.

Mrs. Mona K. Hildreth, county home demonstration agent, showed color slides on the modern "Save the Heart" kitchen.

Mrs. Frank served punch and cake to eight members and their mothers. A dancing party concluded the evening's entertainment.

Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Byars spent weekend in Stephenville visiting Mr. Byars' mother, Mrs. Mary Byars.

Not So Wild

Three wild-type geese flew out of the blue one morning last week and landed on a vacant lot in the 2300 block on Seventh Avenue. Although of a wild variety, the geese certainly weren't wild for the curious could walk close to them without scaring them away.

T-Anchor Rodeo Friday, Saturday

West Texas State College's T-Anchor Rodeo Club will host teams from eight junior and senior colleges Friday and Saturday at a National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association regional rodeo.

Three performances, open to the public, will be given. The first is at 8 p. m. Friday, and at 2 and 8 p. m. Saturday, at the college arena. Admission is $1.00 for adults and 50 cents for children.

Points earned in competition here will apply toward places on the regional championship honor roll. One other regional show will be held May 16-17 at Sul Ross State College before the national rodeo in July at Colorado Springs, Colo. The top three individual riders and top three teams will represent the Southwest region in the national rodeo.

Six-man teams and several girl riders are expected from WT, University of Arizona, New Mexico A&M, Sul Ross, Hardin-Simmons University, Texas Tech, Howard County Junior College, Cisco Junior College, and Ranger Junior College.

Events will include bulldogging, bull riding, saddle and bare back bronc riding, ribbon roping, calf roping, barrel racing and goat tying for girls. A wild cow milking contest and a goat-sacking contest will be held for campus organizations.

Members of WT's team include Ross Caton and Buck McAdams of Amarillo, Dick Doyle of Claude, Joe Powers of Olney, J. E. Waller of Floydada, and David Keith of Matador. Alternates are Jim Damron of Big Spring, Jim Darden of Kress, and V. J. Duncan of Amarillo.

June Ware, Lockney senior, will reign as queen of the rodeo at WT, and will enter the "Rodeo Sweetheart" contest slated at the national championship contest in Colorado Springs.

West Texas State's team is now in fifth place among the region's college squads, and with a few earned points might become one of the top three.

Caton, WT's bulldogger, is currently third among performers in that category, and by maintaining his position, will be a contestant in national events.

Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Knighton of Corpus Christi are visiting friends and relatives in Canyon and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Knighton and family in Perryton.

ROTC Awards Day Thursday

Annual Awards Day, when outstanding cadets of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps units are honored, will be held Thursday on the drill field at West Texas State College. The public is invited for the colorful ceremonies, which start at 1:30 p. m.

Top awards will go to the "outstanding" cadets of each class, according to Lt. Col. Edward L. Lindsey, professor of military science and tactics.

These include the President's Trophy, to the outstanding senior; the PMS&T trophy to the junior; the W. E. Lockhart Trophy for the sophomore; and the Martin Allen Dickinson award, to the top freshman.

The Lockhart award is given by the Palo Duro Post No. 97, American Legion, and the Dickinson trophy is presented by the Lucius Penick Post, VFW in Canyon.

Among other awards are the Col. T. H. McDonald Trophy, to be presented to the outstanding company; the Reserve Officers Association trophy to the advanced cadet who attained the best summer camp record; the Honor Medal by the Texas Society of Sons of the American Revolution, to the cadet most proficient in basic course.

The Association of the United States Army medal to the senior who has made greatest degree of professional development; and the Chicago Tribune awards to the cadets with highest academic average in military science courses of each class.

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

We have all seen areas in fields where water will stand for days. To the farmers and ranchers of this area, the water intake rate of the soil is very important.

A moderate water intake rate is beneficial to the irrigation farmer because he can obtain more profitable crops through uniform stands and growth of crops without danger of drowning out. The dryland farmer or rancher must make use of the hard quick rain storms which we get during growing season.

There are many factors which determine the intake rate of soils. One of these is the texture of the soil. The clay loams and silty clay loams which are found on all of our "hard lands" are generally considered to be very slowly permeable. Another factor affecting intake rate is the amount of compaction.

The intake rate of all soils can be reduced after it has been packed by the weight of machinery or cattle and we all know that the soil packs the most when we are trying to plow or having cattle in the field when the soil is just a little too wet, as a result forming a plow pan or hoof pan. This compacted area will not only reduce the intake rate of the soil but will reduce the amount of pore space which results in less water being held by the soil.

If your soil is showing signs of poor water intake rate, the Board of Supervisors of the Randall-Potter Soil Conservation District believe one or more of the following management practices may help you:

1. Plow as little as possible.
2. Plow ONLY when soil is dry enough to make a fragile ball.
3. Plow at various depths and occasionally deep enough to shatter plow pans.
4. Grow alfalfa and/or sweet clover in rotation when possible.
5. Keep as much stubble and other residue on top of the ground as possible.
6. Leave about half the grass for cover on pastures.
7. Take cattle off muddy fields and/or pastures.

Many of the soils can be improved and become more profitable land for their owners.

MYERS FARM EQUIPMENT CO.
1617 5TH AVE. CANYON, TEXAS

To The Honorable E. E. Jordan
District Judge of 47th Judicial District Court
And To The Honorable Commissioners Court of Randall County, Texas
Gentlemen:

I have prepared the attached financial report of the Treasurers' Receipts and Disbursements, and collectoin of taxes and fees of office and statements of Bonded Indebtedness of the County.

I wish to call your attention to the fact that the fee offices of the County have not been audited during 1957 by the County Auditor as had been done during the other years from 1953 through 1956. As I stated in my report for the year 1956, I considered that these offices had been audited for those years, and expressed my opinion to that effect, in the audit report for each of those years. For the year 1957, however, I did not audit the receipts of the fee offices or the records of their special accounts, trust funds, etc. Therefore, it is my recommendation that an independent audit be made for the year 1957. However, as this report shows, I have checked the reports of money paid to the Treasurer with the receipts for the money actually received by the County Treasurer.

I wish to thank the County officials and deputies for the courtesies extended the County Auditor during the year.

Sincerely yours,
E. T. Cummings
Randall County Auditor

A Pause Refreshes

As the saying goes, "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy."

With the end of school fast approaching and so many things yet to be done before school ends, students find that they have so much work to do that it seems almost hopeless.

Often people are inclined, in a busy time such as this, to work and work to get finished, forgetting about everything else.

The problem is probably brought on by lack of efficiency. At any rate you should divide up your time so that you have time to relax and enjoy some fun out of life or life would not mean much.

It has been proved that at a time when much work is required to be done that a short pause in which you completely relax helps you afterwards to work even faster and to do a better job.

There is still another reason for having adequate time set aside for recreation, fun and relaxing. People who devote all of their time to work often develop dull personalities and do not enjoy life and the association with their fellowman as they should. Recreation can help a person combat this. The word recreation itself means to create anew or to give fresh life after toil or anxiety.

Take time out of your busy, daily lives to enjoy life and develop a full-of-life personality.

Scholarship Test Given to Juniors

Sixteen CHS students, tired and sleepy, drearily moped through their afternoon classes on April 29, and it wasn't because of spring fever either. After sitting from 8:45 in the morning to about 12:15 taking the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test the students were tired.

Many of the students weren't too optimistic about the results. Maybe this can be explained by the fact that the mind can only endure as much as the sitter can endure.

Students who took the test were Mayla Atkinson, Eddie Boydstun, Jimmie Lou Hiltbrunner, Sondra Hines, Ann Jarrett, Margaret Juniper, Suzanne Lemons, Martha Maddux, John Menke, Carol Ann Minor, Barbara Myers, Jerry Parker, J. W. Simms, Gene Stocker William Tandy and Delores Wagner.

About $5 million is available in scholarships in the national competition. The money is put up by some 80 corporations, foundations, professional societies and individuals.

The Scholarship Test is a test of educational growth and aptitude. It does not cover plain knowledge of facts but emphasizes broad intellectual skills and understanding and ability to use what has been learned.

Ten thousand students making the highest scores on the test will advance to the semi-finals and take a second test. If they do well in this test, then they become finalists and the winners are selected from their previous grades, citizenship and extra-curricular achievements.

There are several purposes for students taking the examination. Some, of course, will win Merit Scholarships. Scores obtained from the test may help students to make decisions about college and the right courses in which to major. Also the test is useful to learn about strengths and weaknesses. In addition, students will be able to compare their scores with other students across the nation. Finally, all non-winning finalists will have their names sent to various colleges and organizations which may help them to win a scholarship.

The test was constructed by Science Research Associates of Chicago. Results will be known at the beginning of next year.

Lighting the way of men to betterment is the finest profession known.

Choir Program Features Awards

With a variety of music from popular and comedy to serious selections, the CHS choir presented a program to the high school April 29. The assembly climaxed a period of "recruiting" on the part of the present choir members for the choir next year.

Beginning with "Round and Round," the song made popular by Perry Como, and ending with "Ours is the World," a majestic anthem, the choir showed its versatility.

Also sung were "A Man's Best Friend is His Horse," a novelty number for boys; "Charlattown," a girl's choir selection; "I Wish I Was Single Again," a male quartet minstrel song; "Soon-ah Will Be Done," a Negro spiritual; "A Senorita's Serenade. "Thine Alone" was sung by the girls' sextet. "By the Bend of the River," by the senior mixed quartet, and "Heavenly Light" by the entire choir.

Music awards were made in this assembly. Band director Herman Demus recognized the members of the band who had performed in solos during the year.

Twirlers and their ratings, who entered at Borger and in the Interscholastic League at Canyon were: Linda Green, I and II; Jimmie Boyd, III and III; Wilma Burkett, II and IV; Dona Caskey, II and IV; and Ann Jarrett, II.

Soloists competing in the Interscholastic League contests and their ratings were: Ann Jarrett, clarinet, III; Delores Wagner, clarinet, III; Martha Maddux, flute, I; Nancy Cleavinger, flute, II; Dorothy Higdon, oboe, I; Patsy Seymour, clarinet, II; Candy Throckmorton, tenor saxophone, II; Mary Bargar, French horn, II; and Barbara Hufnagle, French horn, II.

Ensembles competing and their ratings were the brass sextet, II, composed of John Winters, Ronnie Hughes, Sondra Bargar, Gary Hicks, Weston Moore and Bonnell Riley, clarinet quartet, II, Patsy Seymour, Marla Free, Linda Green and Beverly Richard; clarinet quartet, I, Pat Hardaway, Ann Jarrett, Carolyn Glanton and Delores Wagner.

Miss Ada V. Clark, choir director, then recognized the students from the choir participating in contest.

Making first ratings were the girls' sextet, Suzanne Lemons, Nedra Fanning, Carole Jones, Betsy Callarmn, Mry Gladys Marshall and Barbara Brown; the senior quartet, Jim Fanning, Beverly Henson, Joy Gray and Lloyd Mann. Lloyd Mann also made I in tenor solo. Joy Gray made II in soprano solo.

Joy Gray, All-State Choir member, was chosen most valuable choir member of 1958. She was given a gift certificate.

Receiving recognition for four years in choir were Louise Higdon, Beverly Henson, Rita Joyce Grabbe and Mary Gladys Marshall.

In appreciation of their help through the year, the accompanists, Melba Haile and Suzanne Lemons, were presented pins.

Edgar Presents Science Program

Mr. Robert T. Edgar, a performer for the Southern School Assemblies, strongly believes that with the launching of the Russian Sputniks, America suffered a great defeat and that the United States has now slipped to a second rate nation.

He believes also that America must wake up and develop faster in the scientific field if we are to survive in the future and that high school students of today have this responsibility in the future.

Mr. Edgar presented a program to the student body on April 25 on "The Conquest of Space."

The assembly was presented to show high school students the tremendous development which has been made in the field of science and to show the importance of science. Mr. Edgar showed mostly slides on scientific projects and explained these as he went along.

Many interesting slides were shown. Mr. Edgar started off by showing pictures of the Mt. Palomar Observatory which has a 200 inch telescope. Mr. Edgar's father designed several large parts of the telescope. One interesting fact was brought out. The top dome part of the observatory rotates and is scientifically fixed so that even a baby is strong enough to turn it.

Rockets were also explained and an imaginary trip was taken in a rocket. A new type of airplane was shown which is being developed for long distances. It will fly from New York to San Francisco in 30 minutes. Slides were also shown of the stars, the earth as pictured from a rocket leaving the earth, Mars, the sun, the moon and Haley's Comet which will appear again in 1985.

Mr. Edgar has been in over 8,000 schools with his program. He was born in Scotland, educated in Australia, and now lives in Los Angeles.

First-Rate Musicians

Tired CHS Students Return from Rollicking Day in Palo Duro Park

Weary students, some of them dripping wet, loaded the buses for Canyon High School. Yes, they were returning from the annual high school picnic held May 2 in Palo Duro Canyon.

Girls were seen clad in pedal pushers, shorts or jeans, and some of the boys were wearing dinky hats with a feather in them. Teachers, chewing gum, looked relaxed in their sport clothes and also wet when they forgot to duck as a water gun was fired.

Once they arrived in the canyon, students and teachers began to scatter as if they had just broken out of jail.

Some couples went to look at the different types of plants the canyon has. Other girls screamed and ran as they tried to escape a dunking by prankish boys. Some students and teachers played baseball, volleyball, horseshoes or washers.

Around noon time, horns started honking and hungry students ran to the chow line. There they were fed a picnic lunch of tuna sandwiches, pimento cheese sandwiches, potato chips, dill pickles, spiced muffins and soda pop.

Science Classes See Film

A 10 minute film about the first Explorer satellite was shown to all CHS science classes on April 30. The film was made by the Army and showed the Jupiter C missile and gave limited information about its fuel, assembly and size. One unexpected method was used in launching the rocket. Before firing the rocket, the nose was made to spin around so that it resembled a bullet when fired. The actual firing was also shown.

James Monroe was an outstanding man. His mother was Welch and his father was Scotch. He attended William and Mary College, was a major in the Revolutionary War, served in more offices than any other American before or after him, was President of the United States and helped start the "era of good feeling," and started the Monroe Doctrine.

Homemakers Have Luncheon

After working hard scrubbing the homemaking department, the second year homemaking students planned a luncheon for their last project in the study of luncheons and breads. The luncheon was given April 30.

Guests were Mr. R. C. Wells, Mr. Lynn Hulsey, Mrs. Dan Sanders, Miss Marilyn A. Payne, and Mrs. Suzanne Tatman, instructors. Each kitchen group invited one guest.

Seniors Leave on Trip Down South

What have those seniors been doing? Packing bags and saving money seems to be the main thing and all of that extra studying they are doing. Yes, you guessed it! All the fuss is for their five day trip deep in the heart of Texas.

Students and sponsors, Mrs. Dan Sanders and Mr. G. D. Inman, loaded two chartered buses this morning. The buses were then headed for Galveston, Austin, Houston and San Antonio where seniors will sight-see and spend a night at each city.

To finance the trip, seniors have sold candy and football programs, had bake sales and chili suppers, produced the senior play and sponsored a basketball game. The money taken in from these activities will pay for the travel, lodging and the banquet to be held.

Tentative plans have been made, and the seniors hope to visit the University of Texas in Austin and go through the capitol there.

Once in Houston, seniors will try to see the San Jacinto Battle Grounds and Monument, the University of Houston and Rice University.

A beach party will be held in Galveston. Here the students may visit a tea plant and the University Medical School.

The last day of the trip will be spent in San Antonio. The banquet will be held there. If plans work out, the seniors will visit Breckenridge Park, the Alamo, the Buckhorn Saloon and the Governor's Mansion.

Fanning Reigns At FFA Banquet

Nedra Fanning reigned as FFA Sweetheart at the annual Parent-Son Banquet held April 29 in the high school cafeteria.

Dr. M. R. Calliham, head of the agriculture department of WTSC, was guest speaker. As his topic he spoke on "New Frontiers." He said that we have no more land we know of, therefore we must develop the human mind as fully as possible. He told those present that progress in technology would not only be in science but also in agriculture.

Table decorations for the banquet consisted of small wooden windmills, place mats and napkins with the FFA symbol in blue, gold place cards and programs.

Parents and their sons were served a dinner of fried chicken, gravy, mashed potatoes, green beans, jello salad, apple pie, ice cream and iced tea.

Toastmaster was Weldon Tucek, FFA president. The invocation was given by Neal Lemons; welcome, Dale Henry; response, Mr. E. T. Zachry; introduction of guests, John Winters; introduction of sweetheart, Bob Zachry; and highlights of the year, Carroll Wright.

For entertainment the Velvetones sang "Picnic," "Sentimental Journey," and "Ballin' the Jack." Those singing were Melba Haile, Linda Green, Betsy Callarman, Suzanne Lemons, Nedra Fanning and Jeanne Whinnery.

Those serving at the banquet were Dorothy Higdon, Kathryn Winstead, Edna Lewis, Jan Brotherton, Linda Burgess, Nancy Cleavinger, Carolyn Franklin, Barbara Hufnagle, Candy Throckmorton, Janie Myer, Patsy Seymour, Marilyn Roberts, Lavonne Patterson, Jo Ann Thompson, Patricia Salmon, Elaine Downing, Rhenea McClenny, Junell Bauer, Carolyn Campbell, Shannon Downing and Marsha Barker.

Comedy Is Given By Speech Class

With a bumpity-bump, a squeal and laugh the speech class presented "Antic Spring," a hilarious one-act play, in assembly May 6.

The play is a picnic taken by six young teenagers. Spice is added by the "little brother brat" and an intellectual poet.

Gene Powers plays Robert, the poet, who is always quoting poetry as he views the landscape. Ralph White plays Elbert, the little brat of a brother. Dory Funk plays Sam, a great football hero who is deeply "in love" with Gwendolyn played by Gayle Welch. Jeanne Whinnery plays Blossom, the feather-headed teenager, who has never had a date. Mary Bess Brillhart plays Ginger, one in charge of the picnic.

This one-act play is part of the speech program to have everyone in speech participate in a play this year.

Hines Will Attend A&M Program

Sondra Hines, CHS junior, has recently been selected from among more than 100 of Texas' best biologists to attend the Texas A&M Summer Enrichment Program for talented young biologists. Fifteen boys and 10 other girls were also selected for the honor.

Beginning on June 9, the informative course is designed to introduce as much of the field of biology as possible in five weeks. Included in the program will be visits to the fields, forests, museums, zoological parks, research laboratories and the sea shore that will serve as a learning media. Sondra will especially study about antibiotics of the soil.

The purpose of the course is to encourage students to do creative work and give them the opportunity to study a wide variety of topics not usually included in high school curriculum.

Only juniors were considered for the course. Sophomores are selected in special cases. Sondra's selection for the honor was made on the basis of her aptitude, academic records, enthusiasm for science and mathematics and on a school officials recommendation.

Students selected for this honor will gain valuable advantages. An increasing number of colleges now either permit the early entry of talented students or permit them to take credit for beginning courses by passing advanced standing examinations. Scholarships are available to talented students. The summer enrichment program help students to obtain these advantages.

Recreational facilities will also be available and the Fund for the Advancement of Education will pay for Sondra's tuition and books.

Summer programs in chemistry, mathematics and physics are also available. Dr. C. C. Doak is director the biology department at A&M College and will instruct the biology course this summer.

Sondra is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. E. Hines of 211 Fourth Avenue. She plans to major in biology in college and later to do research work or become a teacher. She was also named as the CHS nominee for the English Achievement Award this year.

Wilbanks Is Third In Austin Contest

Dana Wilbanks, the only one of the five CHS students to place in the state Interscholastic League contests, was awarded third place in ready writing in Austin May 2.

Richard Burgess, discus thrower, placed sixth in the discus throw in the athletic division. Lloyd Mann, extemporaneous speaker, and Margaret Johnson and Bernice Green, girl's debate team, did not place since only the first three places were awarded in these divisions.

The competition in the state contests was rough. The opponents of the debaters and extemporaneous speaker were good. Margaret, Bernice and Lloyd like to feel that they were fourth, but even to be seventh best in the state of Texas is something to be proud of.

Although the debate team did not win first this year, they have decided to capture the crown in 1959. The team, composed of Margaret Johnson, sophomore, and Bernice Green, junior, has already begun to plan its next year's debate activities. The topic next year will be education. This year it was foreign aid.

After the group arrived in Austin, they had the rest of the day, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, with the exception of the time they were in contest, to visit the state capitol, swim, watch the excellent track meet, or just drive around Austin. Of course, there were the wonderful meals eaten at different places in Austin. To the students meal time was almost the most important.

The group ran into rain on the way to Austin and it stayed with them until Saturday. After a rainy day Friday, the sun came out and produced a fairly dry track for the colorful Interscholastic League track and field classic held Saturday. As a large crowd watched, they saw several state and conference records fall and one national record tied. The state finals in track are always a thrilling climax to the annual state meet.

Accompaning the students to the contests were Mrs. Cecil Simms, speech teacher, Mr. Davis, track coach, and Mr. J. E. Miller, high school principal.

Although they did not capture first place crowns as they had hoped, the students, as they expressed it, "had a ball in Austin!"

NEWS LETTER

FROM CONGRESSMAN WALTER ROGERS OF THE 18TH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT

Pentagon Reorganization

The President's proposal to reorganize the Pentagon seems to become more controversial each day. Some are taking a position that it is being made into a political issue and that partisanship petticoats are beginning to show in the Armed Services Committee.

The general agitation about the proposal was reflected by the sharp exchange that took place between a Texas newspaper reporter and the President in his recent news conference. The papers here played the story big. The paper which is considered to be the most conservative of the three Washington newspapers carried a rather extended story about the incident and referred to three other questions that seemed to have raised the President's ire.

The incident about the Pentagon reorganization arose when a newspaper reporter, who is a woman representing a Texas newspaper, asked the President a question concerning the possibility of a "Prussian" type organization being created if his plan was adopted. The President shot back an answer in the nature of a question. He asked the newspaper woman, "Have you read the law?" The writer reporter replied, "Yes Sir." The President is then quoted as having said, "No you haven't, I don't think."

Another question put to the President by one reporter that was credited by the local newspapers as having raised his ire had to do with the President's recent suggestion that the people buy. The reporter. after getting the President to confirm that he had asked the people to buy, then asked the President if he would tell the reporters what he had bought.

It was then that the President became obviously annoyed and said that he had not discussed the matter with his personal aide who took care of his buying needs. Another reporter, who asked some questions concerning the President's position on the unemployment benefits bills in the Congress, was cut off by a statement by the President that "he thought the reporter knew something about the matter."

All of this left many of the reporters wondering what the next news conference would produce and when it would be held.

When Is a Chicken Not a Chicken?

Hearings are now being held on a bill to amend the Interstate Commerce Act as it concerns the right to haul agricultural products without being subject to regulations. The battle as to what is an agricultural product and what is not an agricultural product has been going on for some time.

In recent years the question arose as to whether or not a chicken that had been killed and cut up or frozen was still a chicken that could be hauled under the agricultural exemption, or if it became a manufactured produce and had to be hauled in accordance with certain ICC regulations.

A case went to the Supreme Court involving this question, and the Court held that the chickens retained their identity as chickens even after they were killed and could be shipped without the hauler complying with rules and regulations of the ICC. The Supreme Court in its decision said, "A chicken that has been killed and dressed is still a chicken."

All of this was brought out in the hearings before the Interstate Commerce Committee of which I am a member. When the language of the Supreme Court was quoted by one witness, it brought to my mind the fact that a serious situation could arise on this subject in Texas.

I recall that while serving as District Attorney, we were investigating a man who was charged with chicken stealing. Under Texas law he could be sent to the penitentiary for this. However, he argued that he was not guilty of chicken stealing, although he had stolen the carcass of several chickens.

At that time dressed chickens were selling for about 75 cents each. He had stolen three of these dead chickens. If the chickens had ceased to be chickens because they had been killed, the largest penalty that could be put upon the thief would be a fine, because the value of what he stole was less than $5; but, if the chickens had continued to be chickens even though they had lost their lives, the theft of only one of them would have subjected the man to conviction of a felony for which he could have gone to the penitentiary for several years and would have lost his citizenship.

It is my recollection that the Texas Courts have held that a dead chicken is no longer a chicken under the Chicken Law—the same as a cow is no longer a cow after it is slaughtered. This being the case, I am wondering what will happen in the future in view of the language of the Supreme Court in the frozen chicken case.

If the Justice of the Supreme Court who wrote that opinion and used the language, "A chicken that has been killed and dressed is still a chicken," ever steals a dead chicken in Texas and gets caught, he might wish he had never used the language.

"ELECTRIC COOKING IS Easy... EVEN FOR ME!"

says CARL McKINNON

GUYMON, OKLAHOMA

Mr. McKinnon says, "Cooking electrically is easy for even inexperienced cooks like me. I never thought I would actually enjoy preparing dinner for the boys while Lou, my wife, is not at home. Now, when she goes to her church and social affairs, the McKinnon men take to the kitchen. Roger helps with the salad, Doug helps set the table, and Warner, like most four-year-olds, just does a little bit of nothing. Although we're having steaks tonight, the boys ordinarily vote for hot dogs or hamburgers; regardless, our electric grill does a wonderful job, no matter the menu."

"Now, with our steaks, salads, green beans and cake (Lou baked it in our electric oven this morning), we are ready to settle down and enjoy our meal, along with our 'men talk.' With Roger and Doug, that's football — with Warner, cowboys and TV."

Text of Teacher Supply Committee Report

This is the second of four reports made by the Canyon committees working for the state Hale-Aikin report. This committee worked on the question of teacher supply. The remaining reports, on finance and buildings, will be published in subsequent issues of The Canyon News.

Teacher Supply

Although good administration and many other factors enter into making a good school, the deciding factor is the progress made by the pupils. To realize the maximum benefits from their educational opportunities, our children must have good teachers. Attracting and holding qualified persons in the teaching profession is important not only to the future welfare of each community; it is recognized also as a vital necessity in our state and nation.

Present Need for Additional Teaching Personnel

For the state as a whole, the Texas State Teachers Association estimates a need for 40,955 additional teachers during the five years ending in 1962-63. 15,270 will be needed to replace teachers who will leave the profession for any reason.

Questions

1. How many teaching positions do you now have vacant?
Answer: One.

2. How many additional teachers do you need to relieve overcrowded classrooms?
Answer: None.

3. If there are essential instruction and educational services not now being offered that you feel should be offered, how many additional teachers do you need in order to offer such instruction and services?

Answer: The committee thinks that a minimum of five teachers are now needed to offer essential instruction and educational services not now offered.

Our committee found that the Canyon School offers a high level of essential instruction and educational services; however, we are recommending the following additional teachers and special persons to supplement and strengthen the present program.

(1) We recommend a counselor for the High School. We think that there is great need for special counseling, vocational and personal, that the classroom teacher and school principal cannot find time and opportunity to give. It is our opinion that a more comprehensive testing program should be established and maintained. This would include aptitude, interest, mental achievement and personality testing. We think that this testing program should eventually be established throughout the school system.

(2) Our study reveals that there is need for one additional teacher in the music department. This would give more students an opportunity for musical training and relieve the present situation in which too much is expected of present personnel.

(3) We recommend that a school nurse be added to the faculty. Her services would provide better health opportunities for all students. It is thought that her work would help increase the average daily attendance enough to offset her salary. Regardless of this possibility, we strongly suggest that this be given further consideration.

(4) We think that there is need for a full-time speech instructor, because speech training is very important in our type of society. At the present time one of the English instructors is giving some effective help to a limited number of students, and we appreciate this service, but we think that more students should be given the opportunity for effective speech training.

(5) According to information we have been given, we should have an instructor in physical and health education in order to meet the state requirements. We found the state requirements rather vague and somewhat difficult to interpret but we know that all students need the best possible physical training and health knowledge.

NOTE: We recommend to the local board of trustees that more study be given the possibility of adding these educational services and this additional instruction.

4. Present need for additional teaching personnel.
Answer: Six.

Present Need for Replacement of Teaching Personnel

In some districts or counties there may be a need for qualified teachers which is not revealed by a vacant room or a vacant position. In describing the need for teachers, this hidden need, if it exists, should not be overlooked.

Questions

5. What is the need to replace persons now in service who lack college degrees or the proper legal certificates?
Answer: None.

6. To replace teachers who have indicated their willingness to teach only "until you can find someone?"
Answer: None.

7. To replace teachers who, although certified to teach, lack the competencies which your committee believes teachers should have?
Answer: None.

8. Total.
Answer: None.

Future Need for Teaching Personnel

For the state as a whole, a recent Texas State Teachers Association survey reveals that 6.1 per cent of the total teaching personnel (an estimated 4500 per year) is lost from the profession each year. When the students now completing high school were born, the population increase through live births in Texas was approximately 173,000 per year. Today the population increase through live births is at a rate of 247,000 per year.

Questions

9. What do you predict will be your need for teachers during the next five years to meet the larger school enrollments?
Answer: 30.

10. To replace teachers who will leave the profession for any reason?
Answer: 12.

11. To meet future instruction program and educational service needs which should be added.
Answer: Five.

12. Total future needs.
Answer: 47.

Teacher Supply

One of the recognized methods of determining teacher supply trends is to study a given year and classify all teachers added to the faculty by sources of supply.

Questions

13. Graduates of Texas Colleges who met certification requirements within the year Sept. 1, 1955, to Aug. 31, 1956?
Answer: One.

14. Inexperienced Texas teachers who met certification requirements prior to Sept. 1, 1955, but had never before entered teaching?
Answer: None.

15. Teachers from other states?
Answer: One.

16. Experienced Texas teachers who did not teach the previous school year of 1955-56, who returned to the profession in 1956-57?
Answer: Two.

17. Teachers who taught in another Texas school district in 1955-56, but moved to your county in 1956-57?
Answer: Two.

18. Other sources?
Answer: None.

19. Total.
Answer: Six.

Teacher Utilization

Secure from the school district the pupil load for teachers at the elementary level and at the secondary level.

Questions

20. Does a comparison of these ratios indicate that you are receiving the full utilization of your personnel? Please explain.
Answer: Yes, it seems that full utilization of personnel is being made. A casual look might indicate that some teachers are not teaching as many students as others, but on closer inspection one will see that those teachers have additional duties that complete their schedule. In the elementary school the teaching load of each faculty member is about equal, and seems to be as heavy as would be desired.

21. What steps should be taken to achieve better utilization of teacher personnel?
Answer: In view of the above answer, this does not apply.

Recruitment Factors

Despite the widespread attention given in Texas to the recruitment of teachers, some areas still have a need for qualified teachers.

Attracting an eligible person into the teaching profession involves many factors: Salary, job satisfaction—status in community, opportunity to make a career of teaching and/or school administration, opportunity to continue learning experiences during the summer, love for children and a desire to give public service, teacher retirement benefits, and tenure, contractual relations, adequacy of facilities and other working conditions.

Questions

22. Are general living conditions (housing, cost of living, social relationships, etc.) for teachers in your community at the level which would attract young people to choose teaching as a career? How might they be improved?
Answer: Yes. The teaching situation in Canyon is more desirable than in many other communities. Although the pay scale is below that found in other localities, the cost of living is reasonable. The status of the teacher is higher socially than in some areas. This may be caused by the fact that, with the college located here, there are many more teachers in Canyon. Teachers take a more active part in community affairs than in other places.

23. Are working conditions (tenure, opportunity for advancement, contractual relations, load, facilities, etc.) in your community of the nature that would attract young people to choose teaching as a career? How may they be improved?
Answer: Yes. The "turnover" of teachers in the community is small. Many of the teachers have been teaching locally for many years, and many will retire here. There is not as much opportunity for advancement as in a larger system. The class load and facilities available are good.

24. Are presently established teacher retirement provisions in Texas adequate to attract young people to career teaching?
Answer: Yes. The present retirement provisions of Texas, while not as good as those in some states, are good. Young people seem to give little thought, however, to the retirement systems while thinking about the career they will choose.

25. Should schools recruit as teachers liberal arts graduates who lack one or more required courses in teacher education?
Answer: No. While liberal arts graduates may have the subject matter background for teaching, they will likely not have the knowledge of methods of teaching it to others.

26. Should schools work in the high schools and colleges to increase the interest of students in teaching as a career?
Answer: Yes. A good recruiting program in high schools and colleges would increase interest in teaching as a career. Show the advantages of being a teacher. A salary schedule comparable to other professional careers entered by college graduates would be a good selling point.

27. Should schools make better utilization of present teaching staffs by providing teacher helpers or clerical assistance to perform routine tasks.
Answer: No. Teachers learn to understand their students and their student's work through some of their clerical tasks. A certain amount of routine work should be expected in any job.

28. Should schools achieve some type of school organization which would enable teachers of small classes to be more fully utilized.
Answer: No. This would not be practical. Some subjects can not be taught in larger classes while others may be done as well in groups.

29. Should schools make it possible for qualified laymen, as part-time teachers, to conduct one or more classes in their special field?
Answer: No. Qualified laymen can be used to supplement the teaching done by the regular teachers, but would likely be inclined to put their teaching duties in second place if they were employed to do it regularly. School law in Texas prohibits the use of "part-time" coaches.

30. Should schools employ certified teachers (e.g., mothers available only half a day) on less than full-time basis?
Answer: No. If this were the only solution, it would be better than nothing. If possible, however, a full time person would give more to the school.

31. List other proposals.
Answer: None.

How Can We Keep Good Teachers?

A problem closely related to recruitment is how to retain good teachers we already have. Any district or county which has difficulty keeping good teachers will want to analyze the reasons teachers give for moving as well as some of the reasons which are felt, but rarely voiced. For example, it sometimes happens that teachers get more than their share of public service responsibilities (conducting drives, etc.) in addition to their regular load.

Questions

32. Is the overloading of teachers with community responsibilities a problem in your district?
Answer: No.

33. Give the number resigning during the two school years 1955-57 for personal and family reasons.
Answer: No men, one woman.

34. Accept employment in another public school.
Answer: Three men, one woman.

35. Accept employment outside teaching.
Answer: One man, one woman.

36. Retirement.
Answer: None.

37. Other.
Answer: None.

38. Total.
Answer: Four men, three women.

39. In terms of what is revealed by the above figures, what steps do you propose to reduce the number of teachers who change jobs or leave the profession?
Answer: We don't have a serious problem in Randall County; however, a reasonable increase in pay, giving prestige in keeping with the importance of the work being done, and a fair teaching load are important factors in retaining teachers.

Is the Salary Adequate?

The state provides a base for the salary structure in Texas schools by requiring that all districts receiving state assistance from Minimum Foundation School Funds pay teachers with a bachelor's degree at least the minimum salary ($3,204) established by the legislature. Any district may pay salaries in excess of the minimum schedule if local funds are available.

The salary schedule provided by Texas law guarantees annual automatic increases to the teacher's salary after each year of teaching experience. Up to 12 annual increases are earned by a bachelor's degree teacher, and up to 26 annual increases are earned by a teacher with a master's degree. Each increase so paid must be at least as much as the $54 annual increase provided in the state salary schedule. Further increases may be paid from local funds.

Questions

40. In your own district, does your committee find that salaries are more important or less important than other factors in teacher recruitment? More or less important among factors which cause qualified teachers to stay in the profession?
Answer: Salary is important but not the most important factor in teacher recruitment. It is not generally the most important factor which causes qualified teachers to stay in the profession. These statements are based on a limited inquiry among college students and teachers. These sources of information reveal that working conditions, teaching load, and community environment are important, too.

41. In the judgment of your committee, the teacher salary schedule established by the state should include what features?
Answer: Bachelor's degree teachers should have a minimum salary of $3600 and a maximum of $5000 with a $75 annual increase for 10 years. Master's degree teachers should have a $4000 minimum salary and a $6500 maximum, with $100 annual increases for 25 years.

We think this matter should have a more thorough study by better qualified people. We will, however, give our reasons for the suggested increases. During the 1956-57 school year, Texas ranked 32nd in ADA money per pupil. At the same time, Texas ranked 24th in the average salary paid teachers. Last year, 1383 teachers left Texas for higher paying jobs in schools of other states. We all know that living costs have advanced faster than salary increases, and this is an important factor in our study.

42. Are "years of teaching experience" and "college degree held" sound bases upon which the state minimum salary schedule should be built?
Answer: We think they are reasonably sound bases, and may be the only practical ones.

43. Are there realistic ways in which the salary of the teacher may be related to teaching performance? If so, how?
Answer: We don't know of any realistic ways; however, we recommend that study be given to this possibility before the idea is completely abandoned.

44. After how many years of experience should a teacher with five years of college preparation be advanced from the minimum salary to the maximum salary?
Answer: We suggest the advancement be made over a period of 25 years at the rate of $100 per year.

45. Regardless of state salary schedule minimum and maximum provisions, in your opinion, what minimum and maximum salary figures do you believe would cause young persons in your community to enter college with the specific objective of making a career of teaching?
Answer: We think that $3600 minimum and $6500 maximum would be adequate to encourage young persons to enter college with the specific objective of making a career of teaching.

Teacher Education

The laws and regulations which govern the certification of teachers in Texas require that a person must complete an approved teacher education program in a senior college or university.

The legal responsibility for approval of teacher education programs rests with the State Board of Education, which bases its action on a set of approved standards for teacher education. These standards provide that programs for preparation of teachers must include a strong general education program, adequate subject matter specialization, and the professional education necessary to teaching. The approved teacher education program leading to the provisional certificate requires four years of college work and the bachelor's degree.

The typical teacher education four-year program leading to the provisional certificate is divided in this manner: 2/5ths of the program is devoted to general education (history, government, geography, economics, sociology, sciences, mathematics, literature, the arts and other courses contributing to a general cultural background), 1/5th to specialization in the subject-matter of the first teaching field, 1/5th to electives and the development of a second teaching field, and 1/5th to professional education (school curriculum, teaching methods, history and philosophy of education, educational psychology, student-teaching, etc.)

Approved programs leading to the professional certificate require fifth year of college work.

The continuing effort to improve the competence of teachers after certification—generally referred to as in-service education—is operated by authority of written policies approved by the local board of school trustees. This program is a responsibility of the local district and is defined for accredited schools by the principles and standards for accrediting elementary and secondary schools. This program depends almost exclusively upon the leadership given to it by local school officials.

Questions

46. How many schools in your county have in-service education programs? Explain the nature of the programs.
Answer: Randall County has a consolidated school district, The Canyon Independent School District. Since Canyon is a college town, home of West Texas State College, many of the local teachers take advantage of Saturday and evening courses offered by the college; however, this is a voluntary participation on their part and not required by the local school. Many attend summer school classes at the college on the same basis. The faculty participated in a pre-school workshop on student teaching in August and September of 1951 with Dr. Howard Bacheldor as director. Each year a representative from the college meets with the faculty group to direct and evaluate our thinking concerning the student teaching program in our school. During the school year 1952 and 1953, the entire faculty participated in a school wide, year long evaluation program which culminated with a visiting committee evaluation of the faculty evaluation program. At present, our elementary school (1956-57-58) faculty is continuing a cross-grade level curriculum study which was started last year in order to provide continuity in content and purpose within the elementary school curriculum. A pre-school in-service education program is being planned for the fall 1958 session for all teachers in the Canyon Elementary Junior High and High School. Although our school does not require that the teachers get so many additional hours every few years, there is a constant awareness for the need of professional growth which is taken care of in the in-service programs mentioned above.

47. Should the state require teachers to participate in in-service education—to show evidence that they are constantly seeking to improve their teaching competence?
Answer: Although this is a matter of personal opinion, we believe that it should be left up to the individual school district. As noted in the above statements to question 46, it is evident that the type of in-service training would vary according to the location and need of the individual school district. If the state made certain requirements it would be difficult to make them flexible enough to meet the needs of specific school situations. If the requirements could be made flexible, it would certainly be a worthy aim to have all teachers participating in some type of in-service education from time to time. (The in-service training should be allowed, for on school time, if such requirement were established.)

48. In the opinion of those familiar with the teacher qualifications in your county, do any of the following statements characterize 10 per cent or more of the teachers currently employed? Need more preparation in subject matter areas they teach, lack well-rounded general cultural education, show inadequacies in ability to work with children and in effectiveness of actual teaching.
Answer: We do not believe the above statements characterize 10 per cent or more of our teachers. We have 59 classroom teachers in our school system; 42 hold the master's degree and 17 the bachelor's degree.

49. Should the state offer incentives to encourage the teacher to complete college work beyond the bachelor's degree. If so, what?
Answer: Yes. We believe teachers should be encouraged to continue study toward the master's degree. Salary increase, improved working conditions, reasonable class loads and professional advancements which would enable the teacher to desire and benefit from advanced study.

50. How many public schools, laymen, and colleges work together more effectively in the study and improvement of teacher education? In what specific ways could the teacher education program be strengthened?
Answer: We suggest the establishment and maintenance of a citizens committee, 25 members, for the purpose of studying the needs of the educational program. This committee would meet monthly with school administrators, and the board of trustees. The committee would interpret the school program to the general public and interpret the thinking of the laymen to school officials.

We think the local, area and state workshops on student teaching are doing a great deal to strengthen the teacher education program. In these workshops, the students, cooperating teachers, administrators and college representatives are meeting together and approaching their problems objectively, seeking new ideas and ways of working together. The result is better understanding in the field of teacher education. Our area had a conference workshop last year and this year, and we believe it strengthened our program.

In addition to the workshops, there are meetings between school and college representatives to discuss mutual problems. Special assignments receive special consideration by the cooperating teacher, student teacher and the college representative. The 9 or 18 week assignment for the student teacher has strengthened the teacher-training program. The September experience program is another feature which has made the program stronger. We think that a May or end-of-school experience would make the picture more complete. We suggest more conference time for the cooperating teacher and the student teacher within the school day (relief from recess duty for the elementary teacher, and an off period for the High School teacher who has a student teacher.) Some such arrangement would give the student teacher a more profitable experience, and the regular teacher an opportunity for more effective guidance.

We think that college courses designed to help the cooperating teacher are very helpful to those who are new in the field. Most teacher-education colleges include such courses. We think that more should be done to acquaint the student with all levels of education through extensive observation on each grade level prior to his actual teaching experience. This would be helpful in selective recruitment of students best fitted for various grades of study and participation.

It is also suggested that local classroom teachers be consulted from time to time when the Educational Department of the college is evaluating the methods and teacher education courses to be offered the student teacher. The classroom teacher would be able to make helpful suggestions concerning course content and method, and would gain new insights for her own teaching and preparation.

Milk, Vegetables Top May Listing

COLLEGE STATION—The smallest plentiful foods list in a decade has been announced by the U. S. Department of Agriculture for May. Only two general food categories are in heavy enough supply to make the May list—dairy products and spring vegetables.

The announcement points out that there is a special reason for featuring milk and other dairy foods during May. Current production is running ahead of last year's record levels and output is expected to increase around one billion pounds. Too, prices are at seasonal lows and favorable to heavy consumption.

The unusual cold in Florida and other southern areas the past winter delayed many vegetables, and forced others to be replanted. Therefore, crops usually harvested in March and April will be reaching markets in May, along with those from areas normally producing for May markets.

RACHEL SMITH

Smith-Ruthart Set July Date

The wedding plans of Rachel Smith were revealed at a Saturday luncheon, given by her mother, Mrs. R. A. Smith. Miss Smith will be married to Garland Ruthart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ruthart, in the First Baptist Church July 11.

Seated for the luncheon honoring Miss Smith were her close friends and classmates.

Double wedding rings embedded in a net tufted base, entwined with sweetheart roses and caught at each end with wedding bells, formed the centerpiece. Hand painted satin streamers emerging from the arrangement bore the names and the date. Nosegays of sweetheart roses and sweetpeas for each guest completed the table decor.

WEDDING POSTPONED

The marriage of C. B. Stone and Katie Davenport has been postponed until the latter part of July when C. B. is expected to be out of his cast.

E. A. Oberst Sr. has moved from his farm southeast of Canyon to 2109 Sixth Avenue. A member of the First Methodist Church, Oberst has spent over 48 years on the farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Graham returned home last week after visiting their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Packer, in Philadelphia, Pa., for several days.

Mrs. Earline Moreman and her mother, Mrs. H. C. Hudson, attended the Golden Anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Adkins in Lubbock Sunday. Given by their daughters, a tea in the First Methodist Church honored the couple.

C. V. Lowe of Gruver spent the weekend in the G. B. Combs home.

Birds are hardly anything like people. Yet they, too, have ambitions, pleasures, and even troubles. For instance, come spring, they've simply gotta build a nest. And being as this is outside work, they have the weather to contend with.

The other morning, as we watched from a second-story window, a sparrow collected grass runners for siding on his new home. The wind was blowing a gale and he had trouble keeping his balance. He hopped crazily around the grass root, pecking at it vigorously. Each time he got a hold on it, he would make a sidewise motion against the insistent wind. Losing his grip on his prize, he would come back and try from another angle. He made some dozen tries before he finally got off the ground with the long spiral in his beak.

Yet in no time at all, he was back for another!

Such patience and endurance is rare among humans. Most of us are inclined to give in to the elements, to postpone operations till another day. We'd feel frustrated by the wind, the number of twigs it takes to build a nest, the tired muscles in our aching wings. And, what with the constant menace of creeping cats, in the back of our mind would always be a nagging question as to the value of the project in the first place.

We read the other day that birds and animals in zoos definitely show signs of frustration. This is hardly surprising when we think what challenges nature provides them outside. Come to think of it, birds and humans may not be so different. Don't we create a lot of our own frustrations by not trying our wings?

IT'S A HARD LIFE

Bringing with him an electric atmosphere, a young man strode into the newspaper office and banged his cane on the editor's desk.

"Where's the editor?" he shouted angrily.

"He's—he's out!" replied the clerk nervously. "What's he done this time?"

"In my advertisement for my valveless motor," stormed the visitor, "he's turned the second 'v' into a 'u.'"

Quality has everything in its favor including the price.

Annual Dedicated To Dr. Cornette

For the first time in more than ten years, a copy of the Le Mirage, West Texas State College yearbook, has been dedicated. The 1958 annual honors Dr. James P. Cornette, who this year marks his tenth year as president of WT.

A luncheon Thursday was given by the college publications staffs to present the yearbook to Dr. Cornette. About 30 members of the Le Mirage and The Prairie staffs attended, with Dr. and Mrs. Cornette and Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Henson.

Toastmistress was Mrs. Peggy Lowe Martin of Amarillo, senior who edited the annual.

Her dedication read in part: "The year 1948 brought to the West Texas State College campus a year's usual share of changes, new students and activities that only those attending school that year could recall with pleasure, but 1948 did bring one change that has affected our own year of 1958 as well as the intervening years.

"A man came to this campus in that year with an optimistic outlook for the college's future and a personal pride which he has effectively spread over the ten classes that have graduated since his coming."
